

The background features a faint, large-scale coat of arms of the Diocese of Owensboro. It consists of a shield with a central vertical element, a crown on top, and a banner across the middle. The shield is divided into four quadrants, with a central vertical element. The crown is ornate and sits atop the shield. The banner across the middle contains text, though it is not legible here. The entire emblem is rendered in a light, semi-transparent maroon color against a darker maroon background.
